Remarkable Lunar Rainbow.

I recall many lunar rainbows during the half century since I was an observ ant boy and, if memory serves me, one double lunar rainbow. But the most perfect of these bows that I recall I saw on the edge of Darlington, S. C. I was in a road leading north, with extensive fields east and west; hence my opportunity. The full moon had just risen above the tops of the distant woods, and the bow in the west was perfect. The span of the bow was materially less than the span of a sun rainbow, but its depth, or thickness, was proportionately much greater. The rainbow colors were distinct, but pale. as if the arch were built of pale moth er-of-pearl, and they changed and faded less rapidly than the sun rainbows

When in camp on John's island, South Carolina, I saw a brilliant sun rainbow with one foot of the arch so near we could stand on it or pass be-hind and in front of it, but we did not "dig for gold."—Macon Cor. Scientific

Nelson's Famous Signal.

It is a fact that Nelson's famous signal to the ficet at Trafalgar was in its original form, "England 'confides' (not 'expects') that every man will do his This is the story as given by Captain Pasco, Nelson's flag lieutenant on the Victory: "His lordship came to me on the poop, and after ordering certain signals to be made about a quar ter to noon he said, 'Mr. Pasco, I wish to say to the fleet, "Engiand confides that every man will do his duty," ' And he added, 'You must be quick, for I have one more to make, which is for se action.' I replied, 'If your lordship will permit me to substitute "ex pects" for "confides," the signal will on be completed, because the word "confides" must be spelled.' His lordship replied in haste and with seeming satisfaction. That will do, Pasco; make it directly." And the famous signal was made. - London

An Irishman one day went into the shop of a barber to get shaved. After being properly seated and the lather half applied the barber was called to an adjoining room, where he was detained for some time. The barber had in the shop as a pet a monkey. which was continually imitating its master. As soon as the latter left the com the monkey grabbed the brush and proceeded to finish lathering the Irishman's face. After doing this he took a razor from its case and stropped it and then turned to the Irishman "Shiop that!" said Pat. "Ye can tuck the towel in me neck and put the soap on me face, but, begorrab, yer father's got to shave me!

London is a shop and a bank, a gambling hell and a cathedral. Its streets are paved with gold and set with thorns. It is the place for a rich man and the place for a poor man. It is all wealth and happiness. It is all pov-erry and distress. It is a large paradox. Many things are possible in London that are also impossible. If it so please you and you possess the ability to do so you may live not merely a double life. but half a dozen different lives, which will never clash with one another. You may be in London at the same time a priest and a pirate. It is big enough for both of you. J. H. M. Abbott in

Terrific Race With Death.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Balph F. Fernandez, of Tampu, Fin., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Flectric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect, that in three days I felt like a new man, and tolay I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at E. S. Leadbeater & Sons' drug store; price 50c.
